

EUROTOX 2021

COPENHAGEN | DENMARK

26 - 29 SEPTEMBER 2021

Over the summer, the EUROTOX Scientific Program Committee (SPC) has been busy reviewing and updating the scientific program for next year's EUROTOX2021 Copenhagen congress that will take place September 26-29, 2021.

The 2021 scientific program features six Continuing Education Courses (CEC), numerous key lectures, including the Bo Holmstedt Memorial Lecture, the SOT Merit Award Lecture, and the HESI Lecture. The selected sessions will deal with a variety of topics ranging from advances in science, emerging technologies, to next generation toxicology testing platforms to ensure innovative ways to safely evaluate chemicals and materials. The latest update on Covid-19 is also included as a hot topic. Finally, continuing the tradition originating back in the early 1990's, the 2021 SOT-EUROTOX debate proposes the engaging topic on "Individualised toxicity is the future of risk assessment".

The website (www.eurotox2021.com) will be updated regularly with further congress details, and information regarding registration and hotel accommodations.

The abstract submission platform will open Monday, November 2, 2020, while the deadline for abstract submission will be Wednesday, March 31, 2021.

Opportunities for exhibition and sponsorships are currently available. Interested companies and organisation can visit the exhibition and sponsorship section of the congress website.

Save the date! And plan to join us in Copenhagen in 2021.
